

Events and Parties

Editors' Picks: 11 Things to See in New York This Week

Here's what's happening.

Sarah Cascone, October 2, 2017

Ishmael Randall Weeks, Striation 1 (2017). Courtesy of Van Doren Waxter.

11. "Ishmael Randall Weeks: Annotations, Striations, and Souvenirs" at Van Doren Waxter

Exploring themes of history, geography, and space across time and history, Peruvian-American artist Ishmael Randall Weeks creates sculpture and mixed-media work based on archaeological sites. Abandoned debris left behind at a dig is cast in copper and displayed in a formal vitrine. Sand from the site of a pre-Columbian pyramid is cast into an I-beam as long as the artist is tall and paired with a matching piece made of brick dust from a present-day building.

Location: Van Doren Waxter, 195 Chrystie Street

Price: Free

Time: Tuesday–Saturday, 10 a.m.–6 p.m.

—Sarah Cascone

Follow artnet News on Facebook.