Back for the seventh year in a row, PINTA Art Fair will present a "curatorial format" at their fair this November. PINTA also noted in their recent press release that this edition will be hosted at 82 Mercer, the same venue used by the ever-growing and successful VOLTA NY fair, which just took place two weeks ago.

PINTA New York "is an exclusive and intimate international art fair of select exhibitors from the United States, Latin America, and Europe, divided into segments of Contemporary and Modern art." The show was founded in 2007 and consistently attracts artists, gallery owners, and art lovers from around the globe, teaching visitors about the beauty and creativity found in the arts of Latin America, Spain, and Portugal.

This year, as Executive Director Diego Costa Peuser and newly appointed US Director Ian Cofre announced, the seventh edition of PINTA NY will "coincide with the Latin American and contemporary art auctions in New York, [taking] place from Thursday, November 14 to Sunday, November 17, 2013." Peuser and Cofre continue, "PINTA NY York/Miami), concentrating on Central America.

PINTA FORUM, the public program and lecture series will be coordinated by writer Miguel Lopez (Lima) and curator Gabriela Rangel (New York)."

Another exciting part of PINTA NY is its MUSEUM ACQUISITIONS PROGRAM, in which the fair caters to curators and directors of Latin American art-based museums and galleries. New York museums that have participated in past years include El Museo del Barrio, The Museum of Modern Art, and The Bronx Museum.

PINTA is still accepting applications for those galleries who wish to exhibit this year. Applications are available online and are due by Friday, May 31, 2013.

Check out their website for more information. See you there!
