

Art Guides

Editors' Picks: 11 Things Not to Miss in New York's Art World This Week

From Björk at the Shed to a power-packed panel on Lucian Freud at Acquavella, there is plenty to keep you busy.

artnet News, May 6, 2019

Thursday, May 9–Saturday, June 22

Phoenix Lindsey-Hall, Sitting on the Edge of my Blanket Watching Every Touch (Joan Nestle at Riis Beach, Unknown Photographer) (2019). Courtesy Victori + Mo Gallery.

6. "Phoenix Lindsey-Hall: Shame is the First Betrayer" at Victori + Mo

Having closed its Bushwick location in 2018, Victori + Mo opens its long-awaited Chelsea space with a solo exhibition of work by Phoenix Lindsey-Hall. The show marks the artist's second exhibition with the gallery; in 2017 Lindsey-Hall memorably filled the Bushwick space with 49 porcelain disco balls in tribute the Pulse nightclub shooting victims. In the new show, the artist continues to mine queer identity and experience, but, in these mixed media works, there is a new emphasis on the personal object as a historical and cultural signifier. The artist has spent the past several years exploring the Lesbian Herstory Archives, the world's largest collection of materials by and about lesbians and their communities. For this exhibition, Lindsey-Hall has selected photographs, personal notes, and other objects from the archive, and incorporated elements in novel techniques, silk screening photographs and texts on ceramic, metal, wood and fabric.

Location: Victori + Mo, 242 West 22nd Street

Price: Free

Time: Opening Reception: 6 p.m.– 8 p.m. Saturday, 10 a.m.– 6 p.m and by appointment

—Katie White